INTERESTING SOCIETY NOTES

The weddings next week are of an un brides, however, Miss Mattingly and Miss Ernst, will make their future homes in other cities, which is the only feature about these matrimonial events tinged with regret. Both of them will have large church weddings, so that on this most important date to them they can be seen by all their friends. The marriage of Miss Ellen Williams, eldest daughter of General and Mrs. Robert Williams, to Mr. John Bryson Patton, U. S. N., will be solemnized at home Monday, and the friends who will witness circle of the bride's and groom's acquaintance. Ensign Philip Williams will be best man, and the bride's attendants will include her two sisters, Adele and Mildred Williams and Miss Cecelia Miles. Lieutenant Patton is attached to the Massachusetts, but served during the war on the Brooklyn. The marriage of Miss Marie Mattingly and Mr. Robert Treat Paine, fr., will be a most brilliant event, of which it may be truly said the personal charms and great popularity of bride and her family make every detail of exceeding interest. The handsome and talented bride will be at-tended at the altar of the Epiphany next Wednesday at noon by a large bridal party, Wednesday at noon by a large bridal party, her pretty young sister. Miss Genevieve, being maid of honor, and the Misses Long. Miles, Deering, Paine, Sowers and Mattingly bridesmaids. A very large party of Bostonians, relatives and friends, will accompany the groom here, and the bridal party is greatly in demand socially from now until the wedding morning. Bishop Paret is to officiate at the wedding, assisted by Rev. Dr. McKim. The bride's presents are superb in quality and very numerous. Mr. Paine is a Harvard man and a member of the Puritan Athletic and Country Clubs. His brother, George Lyman Paine, will be his best man.

Miss Elizabeth Lee Ernst and Mr. Mor-

Miss Elizabeth Lee Ernst and Mr. Morton Grinnell will be married at St. John's Church Thursday at noon. Mr. George Grinnell will be best man and Miss Ernst will be maid of honor. Rev. Dr. Mackay-Smith will officiate, assisted by Rev. Herbert Shipman, chaplain at West Point Academy. A reception for the bridal party and relatives will follow at General and Mrs. Ernst's residence, Connecticut avenue. The couple will live in New York.

The movement for early hours has attained great strength in Philadelphia, and while the entering wedge aims at no ex-tremely radical methods, wonderful results are expected. At a meeting held this week about a hundred and fifty women, whose names are those very frequently mentioned in social matters, met and gave expression to their sentiments on the subject. All were unanimously in favor of early hours by any means possible. There were representatives of the cotillions present who willingly agreed to advancing the nour for balls to 9:30 and closing time at 2, and the dinner givers will unite man 7:30 for their dinner givers will unite upon 7:30 for their hospitalities, always on ball nights. The early hour idea has struck New York in a few places, and there have been invita-tions sent out for 12 to 3 parties, which looks like somebody wanted to do away the time-honored afternoon tea

Mr. Romero has finished the said mission for which his long stay in Mexico was intended. The remains of his lamented wife were laid to rest in the vault, which he had built in the burial plot in the Dolores cemetery, near the City of Mexico. The chapel which will mark the lot will be built later.

The Bachelors' German will give three cotillions at the National Rifles' Armory on the following dates: Tuesdays, January 3, January 17 and February 7. The board of trustees of the Corcoran Gallery of Art have sent out invitations for a reception in the gallery in honor of the Anglo-American joint high commission Wednesday, December 14, at 9 o'clock. A recent canvass on the subject here did not leave much room for hope that any thing in the same good cause would make much headway here this winter among private entertainers, at least. Those who have set the fashion for after-midnight cotillions and 8 and 8:30 o'clock dinner parties are not the sons and daugh-ters of those who danced at the 3 o'clock balls and went home after the candie-light suppers in this city thirty or forty years ago. All these customs belonged to a generation or two away back, and are not considered as desirable in their way, as the old mahogany furniture, colored prints and plate for which the old houses where these gayettes took place have been ransacked. plate for which the old houses where these gayeties took place have been ransacked again and again. There is considerable joy expressed, however, over the fact that the Bachelors' cotillions this winter are to commence at 10 o'clock and end a half hour after midnight. Perhaps those who think most on this subject and who will watch the progress of the campaign for early hours with greatest interest belong to that largely increasing body in this city who believe firmly in enjoying what is going on believe firmly in enjoying what is going on socially, no matter if it does entail a great deal of personal discomfort and bodily weariness, and yet feel the same desire for working the usual number of hours every day, whether their labor is a matter of inclination or necessity.

The debutantes next week will include Miss Erroll Cuthbert Brown, Miss Taylor, Miss MacLennon, Miss Julia Waggaman, Miss Bliss and the Misses White. Mrs. Thomas E. Waggaman has issued invitations for Wednesday afternoon, De-cember 7, when Miss Julia Waggaman will make her debut. The last international engagement over which New York society is concerning it-self, is that of Mrs. Cora Colgate, widow.

young and handsome, with a large income, and Lord Strafford of England. Both are so shy of the extravagant newspaper comment, which an announcement of the date of their marriage would arouse, that so far of their marriage would arouse, that so far the dear public has not been taken into their confidence. Lord Strafford is past middle life, but well preserved, and has only enjoyed his honors a few months, having succeeded his brother. He has a goodly income with his title and good name, and does not come to America to replentsh empty coffers. The future Countess of Strafford well have a fine home in St. James empty conters. The future Countess of Straf-ford will have a fine home in St. James Square, London, as well as Wrothan Park, the country estate, over which to preside. On the opening night of the opera season Lord Strafford and the fair object of his af-fections attracted quite as much attention as the artists on the stage. Mrs. Warner has cards out for a tea Wednesday, December 14, when Miss Mary Warner will make her debut. Mrs. Townsend's purchase of the Hillyer property on Massachusetts avenue opens a world of conjecture as to the magnificence and design of the new home which she is to build upon the site. Mrs. Townsend is in mourning retirement because of her mother's death last spring and has the leisure to give to her building plans, which it may be safe to say will not only be as extensive as any of the fine homes in its locality, but will also far surpass them. In a few years more she will have a young daughter in society and the splendors of the new establishment, if Mrs. Townsend's intentions as at present suggested are carried out, will be for her entree into the gay world.

Mrs. A. V. Graves has returned and will be at home Wednesday, December 7, from to 7 o'clock, at 1120 9th street.

In Memoriam.

CHISLEY. In loving remembrance of CATHER-INE CHISLEY, who died one year ago today— December 3, 1897. BY HER CHILDREN.

NELSON. In memory of MRS. ELIZA NELSON, who died Sunday last.

A beautiful soul has gone out with life's tidet a soul that leaves only wrecks of love in those who mourn. Years of slow suffering, during which her patient endurance taught ineffaceable lessons to those around her, and wherein her own bright nature made the cross a blessing rather than a burden. A noble woman, true to her womanhood. Death brought her perfect rast after long vigils of suffering. Those who stand in tears around her bler will feel emobled through having known and loved her.

Her devoted niece, ELIZABETH Q. BELT.

NESLINE. In loving remembrance of our daughter, BARBARA C. NESLINE, who died five years ago tomorrow, December 4, 1803. Anniversary mass at St. Mary's Church at 7:30 o'clock.

AUGHAN. In loving remembrance of my beloved wife and our devoted mother, MARY VAUGHAN, who departed this life two years age tomorrow. Loved in life, and in death remembered. · BY HER LOVING HUSBAND AND CHILDREN.
